With hundreds of clients including local, state, and federal law enforcement agencies, we're not just another run of the mill software company. At Diverse Computing, Inc. (DCI), we build systems and software for law enforcement agencies that help keep their officers and the public safe. We're proud of the work that we do, and we are even more proud of our employees—our most valuable asset!

Our small business consists of a tight-knit team similar to what you would find at a tech startup in Silicon Valley. But unlike a tech startup company, DCI has been in business for over 12 years, we already have a large customer base and steady revenue stream, we are not dependent on high-risk venture capital funding, and most of all, we're profitable! We take care of our team by offering highly competitive salaries and unique perks that make for an enjoyable workplace environment. At DCI, you're not coming to another day on the job... you're coming to another exciting day with the team.
