CAREER SUMMARY

Thomas G. Blomberg is Dean and Sheldon L. Messinger Professor of Criminology at Florida State University's College of Criminology and Criminal Justice, where he has been since receiving his doctorate from the University of California at Berkeley. In 2003, he began serving as Dean, and both founded and directs the College's Center for Criminology and Public Policy Research. Dr. Blomberg has been committed to institutionalizing translational criminology—with research and policy dynamically informing one another—into the College's research efforts and graduate and undergraduate curricula. These translational efforts have resulted in numerous research and policy partnerships between the College and diverse juvenile and criminal justice agencies, state departments of education, and legislative bodies. They also have enabled the College's graduate and undergraduate students to have transformative and empowering educational experiences in which they not only acquire knowledge but learn to create and apply it as well.

During Dr. Blomberg's Deanship, the College has and continues to be among the top criminology programs, including being ranked #1 in the World by the Center for World University Rankings based upon the number of research articles in top-tier journals (2017), #1 among all criminology programs for faculty research in Journal of Criminal Justice Education (2016), and numerous #1 rankings for the College's online Master's Program.

Dr. Blomberg was named one of the most influential criminologists for 2010-2020 (Academic Influence, 2021) and has earned numerous teaching awards for his commitment to student success. He served as Editor of Criminology and Public Policy from 2007 to 2013. His research includes translational criminology, corrections and social control, educational achievement and delinquency desistance, financial exploitation of aging adults, and the role and consequences of expanding private security and technology for law enforcement in a Democratic Society. As Principal Investigator and lead researcher, he has been the recipient of over $26 million in external research funding. Among his books is American Penology: A History of Control (2002), which was cited by the U.S. Supreme Court in Smith et al. v DOE et al. His research articles have appeared in such journals as Journal of Research in Crime and Delinquency, Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology, Criminology and Public Policy, Law and Society Review, Crime and Delinquency, Criminal Justice Policy Review, Journal of Criminal Justice, Journal of Youth and Adolescence, Evaluation Review, Justice Policy and Research, Corrections Journal of Politics and Law, and American Journal of Criminal Justice. Media accounts of his research have appeared in The Washington Post, The Wall Street Journal, New York Times, Los Angeles Times, USA Today and such news magazines as The Economist, U.S. News and World Report, Newsweek, Time, and national and local television news shows. He frequently provides research and policy consultation to federal, state, and local governments, and foreign governments, including the Czech Republic, France, and Germany.

PROFESSIONAL PAPERS PRESENTED, INVITED PRESENTATIONS, AND STATE AND FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TESTIMONY

Since joining the College of Criminology and Criminal Justice faculty in 1973, I have presented several hundred papers and provided numerous other invited presentations and governmental testimony. The papers have been presented to international, national, state and local audiences. They include regular presentations at the annual meetings of the American Society of Criminology, American Sociological Association, the Society for the Study of Social Problems, Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences, American Correctional Association, International Conference on Community Corrections, Correctional Education Association, International Association of Chiefs of Police, Southern Conference on Corrections, and the Florida Juvenile Justice Education Institute. Other examples of invited presentations and governmental testimony have been before the Florida Legislature; the Texas Legislature; the U.S. Department of Justice; the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention; the Office for Victims of Crimes; the U.S. Department of Education; the U.S. House Subcommittee on Healthy Families and Communities on "Lost Educational Opportunities in Alternative Settings," 2009; the Center for the Study of Law and Society, University of California, Berkeley, on "Criminological Knowledge Building and Social Policy," 2009; Criminology and Public Policy Congressional Luncheon on Crime and Punishment "How to Reduce Both," 2011; Criminology and Public Policy Congressional Luncheon, on "A Signaling Perspective on Employment-Based Reentry," 2012; Criminology and Public Policy Congressional Luncheon, on "Criminology, Causality, and Public Policy," 2013; AARP on "Elderly Financial Fraud," 2016; Keynote on "Coercion in the Social Sciences Conference," Florida State University, 2016; Keynote on "Making a Difference in Criminology: Past, Present and Future," Southern Criminal Justice Association Annual Meeting, 2018; "Aging Adult Transitions, Thresholds, and Turning Points to Financial Exploitation," Osher Longevity Learning Institute, Florida State University, 2020; "The Juvenile Justice Education Partnership," Maryland State Board of Education, 2020; "Translation Criminology and Politics," Keynote Presentation for Justice Research and Statistic Association (JRSA) Annual Training, 2021; "Research Brought to Life: Preventing Financial Exploitation of Aging Adults," North American Securities Administrators Association (NASAA), 2022.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

I am regularly interviewed on criminological issues of public interest by major newspapers including

The Wall Street Journal, The Washington Post, New York Times, Los Angeles Times, and USA Today, and such news magazines as The Economist, U.S. News and World Report, Newsweek, and Time. Additionally, I have appeared often on local and national television and radio including WCTV Perspective, Florida Public Television, NBC Today Show, NBC Nightly News, NBC Sunday Evening News, NBC Dateline, CBS Evening News, PBS Inside the Law Series, the BBC, and NPR. These presentations reflect my professional commitment to advancing the role of criminological research in public policy through efforts aimed at building public awareness.

CONSULTANT

Throughout my career, I have provided consultations to federal, state and local units of government on criminological related questions and evaluation of criminal and juvenile justice policies. This includes the U.S. House of Representatives, U.S. Senate, U.S. Department of Justice, and numerous state legislative committees as well as foreign governments. These presentations have been aimed at assisting different levels of government and policy makers in effectively employing research in their public policy related efforts.
