Course Description

This course will introduce students to the concept of family violence and the issues that surround criminal justice responses, protections, and policy in the United States. Lecture material will cover three broad topic areas: child maltreatment, intimate partner violence, and elder abuse. During this 16 week course, students will explore the legal definitions, prevalence, causes, consequences, and responses to each form of violence. Paper assignments will be constructed to enhance student learning outside the classroom, while in-class discussions will be used to promote critical thinking skills. Overall, students will attain a basic understanding for the context and extent of family violence.

Attendance Policy/Extra Credit

There is no explicit attendance policy for this course. However, there will be 5 pop-quizzes given throughout the semester that will serve as a method for awarding extra credit and to evaluate general attendance. Pop-quizzes will be comprised of a single question and will be graded as correct or incorrect. Students who answer questions correctly will have 3 points added to her/his overall grade.

Paper

To enhance learning and absorption of class material, students will be asked to write one 8-10 page policy recommendation paper (worth 200 in total, 40% of overall grade). The body of the paper (this excludes any title page or references) must be 8-10 pages in length, use 12-point Times New Roman font, be double spaced, use 1-inch margins, and be submitted through Canvas as a Microsoft Word document (.doc, .docx). To ensure quality and learning students will be asked to submit this paper in three stages (1) detailed outline, worth 20 points, (2) full paper draft, worth 60 points, (3) final paper, worth 120 points. See syllabus semester schedule for due dates. A brief description of the paper prompt is below.

• Policy Recommendation: For this paper, (1) Identify 2 ways you believe the criminal justice system or legislature (laws, police, courts, corrections, prevention) fails to adequately deal with or prevent family violence (30 points for each failure explained, 30% of grade), and (2) provide a thoughtful policy suggestion/change that you believe would mitigate each issue (30 points for each policy, 30% of grade). Be sure to identify what form of family violence you are discussing and back up your claims/opinions with research facts presented in the course (15 points for each solution and problem, 30% of overall grade). Include proper grammar, formatting, and introduction/conclusion paragraphs (20 points, 10% of grade).

Exams

Exams will be used to assess student knowledge of course material. These exams will be comprised of 50 multiple choice questions and will be worth 100 points each (4 points per question, 60% of overall grade). There will be four exams administered through the semester, however, only the top 3 scores will count toward a student's final grade. The first three exams are not additive and only cover course material from the previous exam forward. The fourth and final exam is cumulative and will test student retention of knowledge from the entire course.

- Exam Day Protocol: Exams will be administered in-person during class time
- Make-up Policy: Since only three of four exam grades are counted toward a student's final grade there will be no opportunities for make-up examinations. The only exception to this policy is if you have to miss two or more scheduled exams. FSU Athletes and ROTC members must notify instructor of any double conflict at least one week prior to the scheduled exam. In cases of emergency the student must provide a doctor's note detailing the medical emergency. Make-up exams will be in essay format.

Academic Success

Your academic success is a top priority for Florida State University. University resources to help you succeed include tutoring centers, computer labs, counseling and health services, and services for designated groups, such as veterans and students with disabilities. The following information is not exhaustive, so please check with your advisor or the Dean of Students office to learn more.

Academic Dishonesty

The Florida State University Academic Honor Policy outlines the University's expectations for the integrity of students' academic work, the procedures for resolving alleged violations of those expectations, and the rights and responsibilities of students and faculty members throughout the process. Students are responsible for reading the Academic Honor Policy and for living up to their pledge to "...be honest and truthful and...[to] strive for personal and institutional integrity at Florida State University." Americans with Disabilities Act

Florida State University (FSU) values diversity and inclusion; we are committed to a climate of mutual respect and full participation. Our goal is to create learning environments that are usable, equitable, inclusive, and welcoming. FSU is committed to providing reasonable accommodations for all persons with disabilities in a manner that is consistent with academic standards of the course while empowering the student to meet integral requirements of the course. To receive academic accommodations, a student:

- 1. must register with and provide documentation to the Office of Accessibility Services (OAS);
- 2. must provide a letter from OAS to the instructor indicating the need for accommodation and what type; and,
- 3. should communicate with the instructor, as needed, to discuss recommended accommodations. A request for a meeting may be initiated by the student or the instructor.

Please note that instructors are not allowed to provide classroom accommodations to a student until appropriate verification from the Office of Accessibility Services has been provided. Recording Class Lectures

Students are permitted to make recordings of class lectures for a class in which the student is enrolled for personal educational use. A class lecture is defined as an educational presentation delivered by the instructor as part of a university course intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject. Recording class activities other than class lectures, including but not limited to lab or recitation sessions; student presentations (whether individually or part of a group); class discussions (except when incidental to the lecture); clinical practical and presentations involving patient histories and other protected health information; academic exercises involving student participation; test or examination administrations; field trips; and private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty member is prohibited. Recordings may not be used as a substitute for class participation and class attendance and recordings may not be published or shared without the written consent of the faculty member. Failure to adhere to these requirements may constitute a violation of FSU's Student Code of Conduct and will possibly have legal consequences. Students who record class lectures are asked to do so in ways that do not make others feel reluctant to ask questions, explore new ideas, or otherwise participate in class. Students must monitor their recording so that they do not include participation by other students without permission. Students with disabilities will continue to have appropriate accommodations for recordings as established by the Office of Accessibility Services.
