TIME INTERVIEW STARTED: _____ (USE 24 HOUR CLOCK)

S8TIMENS

Hello, I'm _____ from the Rochester Youth Development Study. A few months ago we interviewed you (and one of your parents) and we would like to interview you again. Like last time, the interview will take about an hour and this time we will give you $20 for completing it. Also, remember that no one--not your teachers, parents or friends--will ever know what you say. It will just be between you and me and the research team I work with. I'm not here to judge you in any way. Remember, you don't have to do the interview and you can stop at any time, but I hope you will be able to help us out again. Is it okay to start?

A lot of the questions are about things that happened from the last time we interviewed you until today. We've added many new questions, and everyone is asked the same questions about the same things. Remember we interviewed you the last time on:

LAST DATE OF	May	_____.	ON CALENDAR AND SHOW TO

Please try to think of this time period when you're answering. It will also help if you look at this calendar every once in a while.

Because study participants are growing older, some questions and their order have been changed to reflect becoming an adult.
